

RABBI DR. SHAUL MAGID

in conversation with Dan Cedarbaum on

“The Future of the American Jew: Mordecai Kaplan’s Vision Reappraised”

Sunday, March 29, at 4:00PM EDT • Online, using the Zoom platform

This program is free and open to the public.

Rabbi Dr. Shaul Magid is one of the most knowledgeable — and provocative — Jewish scholars and public intellectuals in the world today. He is professor of Jewish Studies at Dartmouth College, Kogod Senior Research Fellow at the Shalom Hartman Institute of North America, Tablet Magazine contributing editor, and rabbi of the Fire Island Synagogue. He received his Ph.D. in Jewish thought from Brandeis University. Before coming to Dartmouth in the fall of 2018, he taught for many years at Indiana University in Bloomington. He is the author of six books and over 200 scholarly and topical essays. His most recent books are: American Post-Judaism (Indiana University Press, 2013); Hasidism Incarnate (Stanford University Press, 2014); and The Bible, the Talmud, and the New Testament: Elijah Zvi Soloveitchik’s Commentary to the Gospels (University of Pennsylvania Press, 2019). His forthcoming book is Meir Kahane: An American Jewish Radical, to be published soon by Princeton University Press.

Dan Cedarbaum is the co-founder and Executive Director of The Mordecai M. Kaplan Center for Jewish Peoplehood. From 2002-2006, he was the President of the Jewish Reconstructionist Federation, and a member of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations. In addition, he has served as a member of the Board of Governors of the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College and as a member of the Executive Committee and the Board of Trustees of the United Jewish Communities (now The Jewish Federations of North America). He is the author of several articles on various aspects of Kaplan’s thought and the Reconstructionist movement. He is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School.
